

DRESSED in yellow hundreds of students from Auburn Public School took part in the national Walk Safely to School Day last Friday. An annual event the day aimed to teach children and their parents about safe pedestrian behaviour, vital road-crossing skills, and the benefits of walking at an early age.